The field day will bring together peak industry bodies who represent the growers of key horticultural commodities, along with industry stakeholders, in Far North Queensland, the third largest fruit bowl in Queensland. With a research and development focus, the field day presents an opportunity for new, current and potential growers to meet and network with the people behind the industries. There will also be commercial exhibitors.

To complement the sites, forums will be held to dissect current and future issues impacting on the region's horticultural industries, with presentations and a Q&A session.

We invite you to attend and be part of the discussion.
